The instructions below are copied from the first page of the exam explain the structure of the exam. This is very similar to the sample exam which is provided on the course website. The exam is open book which means you can bring anything they wish into the exam EXCEPT an English dictionary (University Policy) and a laptop or anything that could electronically communicate with the outside world.

The exam is worth 70% of the total marks for the course. It is similar in structure to the sample exams provided in the resources section of the course website and has questions similar to assignment questions.

You will be provided with 1 sheet of graph paper but if you require more sheets you will need to ask for more sheets.

You are allowed to bring the following:

Calculator - all non-communicable calculators, including scientific, programmable and graphics calculators are authorised.

Dictionary - non-electronic, concise, direct translation only (dictionary must not contain any notes or comments).
